If you receive SNAP benefits, you must now report all of the following changes within 10 days from the date you learn of the change.

- when someone gets a job;
- when the SNAP unit's total gross earned income changes by more than $100 a month or unearned income changes by more than $50 a month, up or down;
- when someone in your unit begins receiving money from a different source;
- when someone moves in or out of your household;
- when you move to another address;
- when your housing costs change because you moved; or
- if you receive a deduction for child support payments, report when the support order changes or ends.
